Notes:

*In 2020, the Registered Instructor Certification through St. Andrews was changed to Certified Therapeutic Riding Instructor (CTRI) Certification, and universities are no longer allowed to certify students in-house. The students must prepare an application portfolio, get it approved and then take an extensive examination for certification.

*As such, the PATH Intl. Approved Training Course is no longer a designation that applies to St. Andrews University (A Branch of Webber International University). The University is a Higher Education member of PATH International, and Ride Like A Knight (RLAK), the therapeutic horsemanship center of St. Andrews, continues to be a PATH Premier Accredited Center.

*Certification is not attendant on graduation from the program. Students need to achieve CTRI certification by the end of their junior year and PATH Equine Specialist in Mental Health and Learning (ESMHL) certification by graduation.

* In 2024, the faculty began preparing in-seat and online students for the PATH ESMHL certification.
